Supporting Family Wellness Ilagiitsiarniq

Guiding Principles

The Qaggiq

The Qaggiq serves as an Inuit gathering place, where Inuit come together to share knowledge, celebrate, heal and foster justice. Our guiding principles for strategic action reflect the foundation blocks of the Qaggiq - providing support and strength for the Department, our staff, individuals and families as we build capacity and improve services. We are committed to meeting the needs of all Nunavummiut as we move forward.

The Muskox

The muskox exhibits a remarkable response when confronted with threats or dangers.

Through an instinctive display of cooperation, adult muskoxen align themselves shoulder to shoulder, creating a formidable barrier against the impending threat. Within this defensive formation, the young muskoxen find refuge, shielded from harm's reach. By maintaining their collective unity and eschewing the instinct to flee, the muskox herd establishes an almost impenetrable defense. This tightly knit formation serves as a powerful deterrent, warding off threats and safeguarding the herd from potential harm.

This innate survival strategy observed in muskoxen finds resonance in the development of the Family Wellness Strategic Action Plan which aims to create an environment that nurtures and protects children, while also promoting and assisting the development of healthy families.
